This autumn at MIPCOM we're excited to bring with us the unprecedented and remarkable series The History of Sweden (p.3). Through ten episodes actor Simon J Berger (Exit) gives us the grand story of Sweden, as we revisit the people and events that has shaped the country until our days - from the ice age to modern time. The series is built around reconstructions of historical events and people, where over 300 experts have contributed and it has been recorded at more than 200 places all over Sweden. A series for both nerds and people curious on Swedish history.

We're also packing a bunch of new formats such as The Detectives (p.18), Wild Weather (p.19), Sleep Tight (p.20), and Sleep Masters (p.21). Detectives and Sleep Tight were both presented at this year's EBU Format Forum in Geneva.

Gaslight (p.14) is a new young psychological drama series that centers around a passionate love story that soon enough evolves into a gaslighting nightmare. Rising star Julia Heveus (Together 99) stars alongside Ivar Forsling (Young Royals) and Suheib Saleh (Quicksand) among others.

If you've missed the story of the Stockholm rapist who was convicted 22 times involving 19 plaintiffs and brought to justice by a team of young female investigators – have a look at Catching a Stockholm Rapist: 19 women - One perpetrator (p.12). The series is nominated for Best TV Investigation at Prix Europa 2023.

At last not but not least, 2024 marks 50 years since ABBA's Waterloo in Brighton pushed the band to global and forever stardom. If you plan to celebrate the fantastic four, Abba in Concert (p.10) is the only live concert documentary available and Abba-Dabba-Doo!! (p.11) still holds up as the very best program ever produced about the group.

Let's meet in Cannes!

THE HISTORY OF SWEDEN

The History of Sweden is the grand story of Sweden, about the people and powers that has shaped the country until our days. In the series we make the journey from the ice age to modern time.

Who were the people who moved here after the melting of the inland ice? How similar are we to our progenitors from the Stone Age? Who was the Österöd Woman - the oldest and most complete skeleton archeologists have found in Sweden?

Through ten episodes, recorded in more than 200 places in Sweden, we explore the big changes Sweden has endured, from natural disasters and deadly epidemics to warlord kings, witches, religious reformation and peoples' movements.

The series has been created in collaboration with museums, libraries and cultural institutions all over Sweden, and over 300 historians and other experts have contributed to its creation and a hundred of them also participate in the series.

Actor Simon J. Berger (Exit) is our guide and storyteller through the series. The theme music is created by Academy Award winner Ludwig Göransson and Per-Gunnar Juliusson.

GRASPING THE FUTURE - AI'S HELPING HAND

In this touching and inspiring documentary we follow Masoud's life changing journey, as he undergoes pioneering medical technology in order to regain lost bodily functions through one of the world's most advanced robot-arm prosthetic controlled by thought.

Masoud was only 17 when he lost his left hand and underarm in a discotheque blaze that killed 63 people in Gothenburg. Now he's about to get the world's most advanced robot-arm prosthetic, controlled by thought. It's not an easy journey, but for the first time ever Masoud is able to go running with weight on his arm – a revelation. Now, the question is, will he be able to control its movements with his mind?

Grasping the Future is a documentary about when almost science fiction-like science meets human needs and enables a richer life.

THE ARCHITECT'S PLACE

Guided by the charming architectural expert Mark Isitt we visit the homes of six prominent Swedish architects. We're invited to their own inspiring and unique homes and hear their thoughts on what they feel makes a proper home.

We meet architects in their own home, where they've made their own very thoughtful decisions regarding angles and light, down to the smallest of screws. Prepared to get inspired by the beauty of the rooms, steadfast advice and some useful architect's secrets. How do they create clever storage that blends with the purpose and design of the house? How do they let the change of the seasons play a part when creating a house? and what are their ideas when it comes to creating a sustainable home for the future?

In each program we move through the chapters: The Home of the Architect, The Office of the Architect, The Inspiration of the Architect, The Advice of the Architect and The Homes of Others Created by the Architect.

TOUPEE

Toupee is a warm and tender portrait about male hair loss and masculinity – and what makes you feel sexy. Men from all over Sweden come to Rickard's hair salon to get help with being thin haired and feeling less-than.

Josef, Per and Oskar are there for a touch-up and some boys talk as a monthly routine, whereas Osama is significantly more nervous. For him, it's his first time.

Many view toupees as something funny that is blown off an old man's head in comedies, but for Rickard's clients the toupee is a band-aid for a scratched soul.

For many men big emotions are connected with their hair, and when you regain a hair style you also regain confidence. It's not actually the hair that's important, but the feeling that comes with having hair.

At times the talk at the salon gets rather deep, which is welcomed by Rickard who thinks men need to talk a lot more about emotions with each other.

LITTLE TO BIG

A much-loved guinea pig has been put down. Someone has been dissed by their first, biggest love. And out in the shimmering summer archipelago, a little girl is carrying a terrible secret.

Little to Big follows a Swedish helpline for children and young people, who are in need of someone to listen. Ellen Fiske and Ellinor Hallin are the first filmmakers to film authentic phone calls made to the counselors of BRIS (the national support line for children and young people).

This resulted in a Guldbagge Award-winning short documentary that gives us a distinctive insight into children's living situations, and how a safe and respectful conversation with an adult who really listens can give you both peace and courage.

ABOUT INGA

In July Inga Landgré, one of Sweden's greatest actresses, passed. In this tender documentary we get to follow her as she reconnects with Greece, the place where she felt the most alive during her life.

Her friend Fanny joins her on a reunion adventure, which becomes an historic backdrop for a talk between two women from different generations. Through conversations Inga is reminded of her past, and life lived.

Inga had traveled most of Europe but she had, in her own words, saved Greece. So when she was awarded a traveling grant from the Swedish Union for Performing Arts and Film after her divorce from actor Nils Poppe, Greece was her destination. The 1964 journey filled her with euphoria and happiness, as Greece became special to her.

Fanny Risberg has created an intimate and unsentimental portrait, beyond a rear window portrait of a Swedish icon, but a hymn to the emotions of life, melancholy, grief, elation and love. Being alive isn't always easy, and a more honest portrait of a long life lived is hard to find.

CATCHING A STOCKHOLM RAPIST

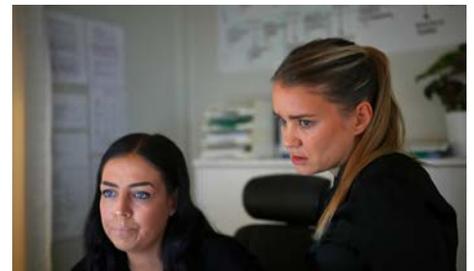

The Stockholm rapist case became the most acknowledged crime investigation of its year, and a historic sex crime case in Sweden. SVT's reporters got the exclusive opportunity to follow the investigation from the inside and meet with many of the victims, as well as the four young female investigators putting together the puzzle that led to 22 convictions involving 19 plaintiffs.

In the end it was the rapist's female friends who took him down. Since they thought it to be unlikely that he would get caught for the sexual assaults, they tipped the police on drugs and weapons he kept in his home. This led to his phone ending up on one investigator's desk, and while she scrolled through it, she discovered his secret world of filmed sexual assaults – often involving sleeping or intoxicated women.

Catching a Stockholm Rapist is a three-part documentary series that not only tells the story of chance meeting persistent investigative work, but it also challenges the image of a serial rapist. The series shines light on the powerful sex offender tool that is gaslighting, as the victims bravely share their very personal stories.

INSIDE ESPORTS

Since the early 2000 esports have been on an explosive growth trajectory worldwide, with the latest estimates point to almost 500 million people following and watching Esports, according to Statista. In conjunction with the huge public interest, the industry itself has been booming, with live events and broadcasts reaching millions of concurrent viewers online.

Inside Esports is a two-part investigative documentary series that examines how solid the foundation for esports really is. Since its birth esports have been riddled with accusations of players cheating to gain a competitive edge. The incitement to do so have only grown as the industry, and the price money, has grown.

The documentary explores this area, how easy it is to cheat in CS:GO? Starting off with most easily available cheats online up to the most advanced form of cheating: hardcoding the cheat into the keyboard itself. Raising the question, could this highly sophisticated cheat be used at the highest level in Sweden and not be detected?

Inside Esports demonstrates how vulnerable and young the esports-industry still is in 2023, and the series carry out a much-needed objective journalistic investigation of the industry - from the outside to the inside.

EAGLES

When the siblings Felicia and Elias Kroon return to their hometown from the US, with their former NHL pro dad Mats, the current hierarchies among the local teenagers are challenged. We follow the lives of five young people, linked together by the city and the game of hockey, as new love, friendship and dreams blossom – alongside an inevitable rivalry.

Season 1 - Felicia and Elias need to find their place in school within the current hierarchy. Felicia finds support in her new friendship with Amie, who is also figuring out her identity. Elias is fighting the rivalry with the town's most promising hockey talent, Ludvig. There is only one opening on the senior hockey team, and things doesn't get easier when Ludvig and Felicia fall in love. A forbidden love – according to the locker room rules.

Season 2 - Elias is charmed by Klara, while Ludvig and Amie gets closer to each other in the music studio. Felicia gets reacquainted with Eagles new assistant coach, Jack Barret. Ludvig ends up in hospital after a game, and Amie prepares for her first meeting with a record label. Klara's family is falling apart as her dad's company is on the verge of bankruptcy. Power relations, lovers and friendships are changing and evolving in the small town.

Season 3 - Klara mourns her father's death and tries to live up to his memory. Amie has achieved her dream but realizes that life as a pop star is both lonely and challenging. Elias is struggling to prove himself as a hockey player while also trying to find out who he is off the ice. For Ludvig and Felicia, it's finally time for a normal relationship, but they can't completely agree on how their future should look like together.

Season 4 – The last term before graduation. Felicia is in rehab after her suicide attempt and want to focus on her own wellbeing but the person she needs the most to move on is not there. Ludvig is weighed down by the shooting between Jack and his brother, and a big family secret is about to be exposed. Amie is struggling with the balance between her music career and being herself, but her label has other ideas. Elias's focus is on achieving his hockey goals no matter what. Klara feels like she is carrying the whole of Oskarshamn on her shoulders, as the Geced company is folding against her will, making many people redundant. Can she stop this?

ON THE RIGHT TRACK

Sweden's biggest game show since it premiered back in 1987.

On the right track is an exciting, entertaining and educational quiz show that keeps the Swedish viewers glued to their TV's every Friday night. Exciting travels, plenty of surprises and clever humour. The programme brings you the whole world with video train travel footage, local music and amusing anecdotes.

The competitors are celebrities from various fields, with two things in common, audience likeability and plenty of all-round knowledge. On The Right Track gives them the opportunity to reveal knowledge and talents often far removed from their image.

In every episode two teams take on three separate train journeys, where the hosts reveal step-by-step punning leads about the final destination. It is the contestants, and the viewers, task to find out where we are heading.

There is also a house band that participates in the quiz by playing a mash-up of hits related to the destinations and the questions dealing with the places we go to. In the final episode the two most successful teams meet.

Since 2023 the format also airs in Finland as Hengillaan.

LITTLE BIG FEELINGS

Come and play with Dragon and its friends! Little Big Feelings is a helpful series for little children, where they can learn to identify feelings from everyday situations.

Doggy and Froggy play with a balloon that bursts, and Doggy becomes angry and ashamed after having pushed Froggy. Kitty builds a high tower with toy bricks but Doggy unintentionally destroys it, and makes Kitty furiously angry. Froggy and Lambsie play "Don't touch ground" and Froggy becomes afraid when Dragon sings about sharks lurking in the ocean.

Together with Dragon and its friends the viewers get to explore and understand different feelings, and what one can do when feeling happy, sad, angry or ashamed.

HOW CAN WE HELP YOU?

KOM OCH KÖP!

Welcome to the store where anything can happen! The workplace of store owner David and his 5-year-old colleagues. Their most important mission is that all customers leave the shop happy.

If they're not happy they might press the red button! But if they're happy with the customer service they'll press the green button and then there'll be dancing and cheering on the shop floor.

In one episode there's a rumor that a vampire is in town and Wilton and Ruth builds a vampire trap. Just as the shop staff are gathering to ambush, a suspect customer enters the shop and she's got both blood oranges and blood pudding in her basket! Is it the actual vampire?

In the series How can we help you? we explore the children's eagerness to play shop, in order to create drama, suspense and humor.

PREZZIE SNATCHERS

Prezzie snatchers is a Christmas tale in the spirit of Charles Dickens. The story takes place in the previous turn of the century in Stockholm, when Christmas is just around the corner.

The city's children are longing for Christmas presents, the big department store are hoping to make some money – and the city's gangs of thieves are waiting to snatch the money! Madame Bofvén is the head of a notorious gang of thieves, in native tongue called “prezzie snatchers”, since Christmas is their high season. They are busy making preparations, crowbars need polishing, lock picks are gathered and the thieves’ nest is decorated with fake bills.

Among the thieves we find Bongo, Shadow, Troll and last but not least, Kurre. Kurre is the sharpest pick pocket in the city, an orphan raised by the gang as his only family. On Christmas day Kurre gets an unexpected visit. An abandoned child is standing outside his squat with a note around her neck – it's his unknown daughter Charlie.

Suddenly Kurre becomes a dad! How will he be able to combine parenthood with the gang of thieves’ operations? And how will Charlie cope with growing up among a gang of outlaws?
